Introduction

Are you bored with seeing the same Christmas decorations EVERY year?

Me too!

Giant blow-up Santas, icicle lights and
 -eeeks-
 faded plastic toy soldiers !!

Same stuff, different year.

Why not bring back the creative decorations and displays of yesteryear?

These displays are EASY to make and fun to paint.

Whether it's Santa and his reindeer charging across the top of your roof, or a fireplace on the front lawn, flanked by red-flamed candles, an outside decoration gives your home a special holiday look.

Use these vintage Christmas display directions to make new, unique and eye-catching displays that will delight young and old alike.

I would enjoy seeing your creations.

Feel free to send pictures of your masterpieces to: VintageInfoNet@gmail.com

Happy Holidays !

Creating Your Displays

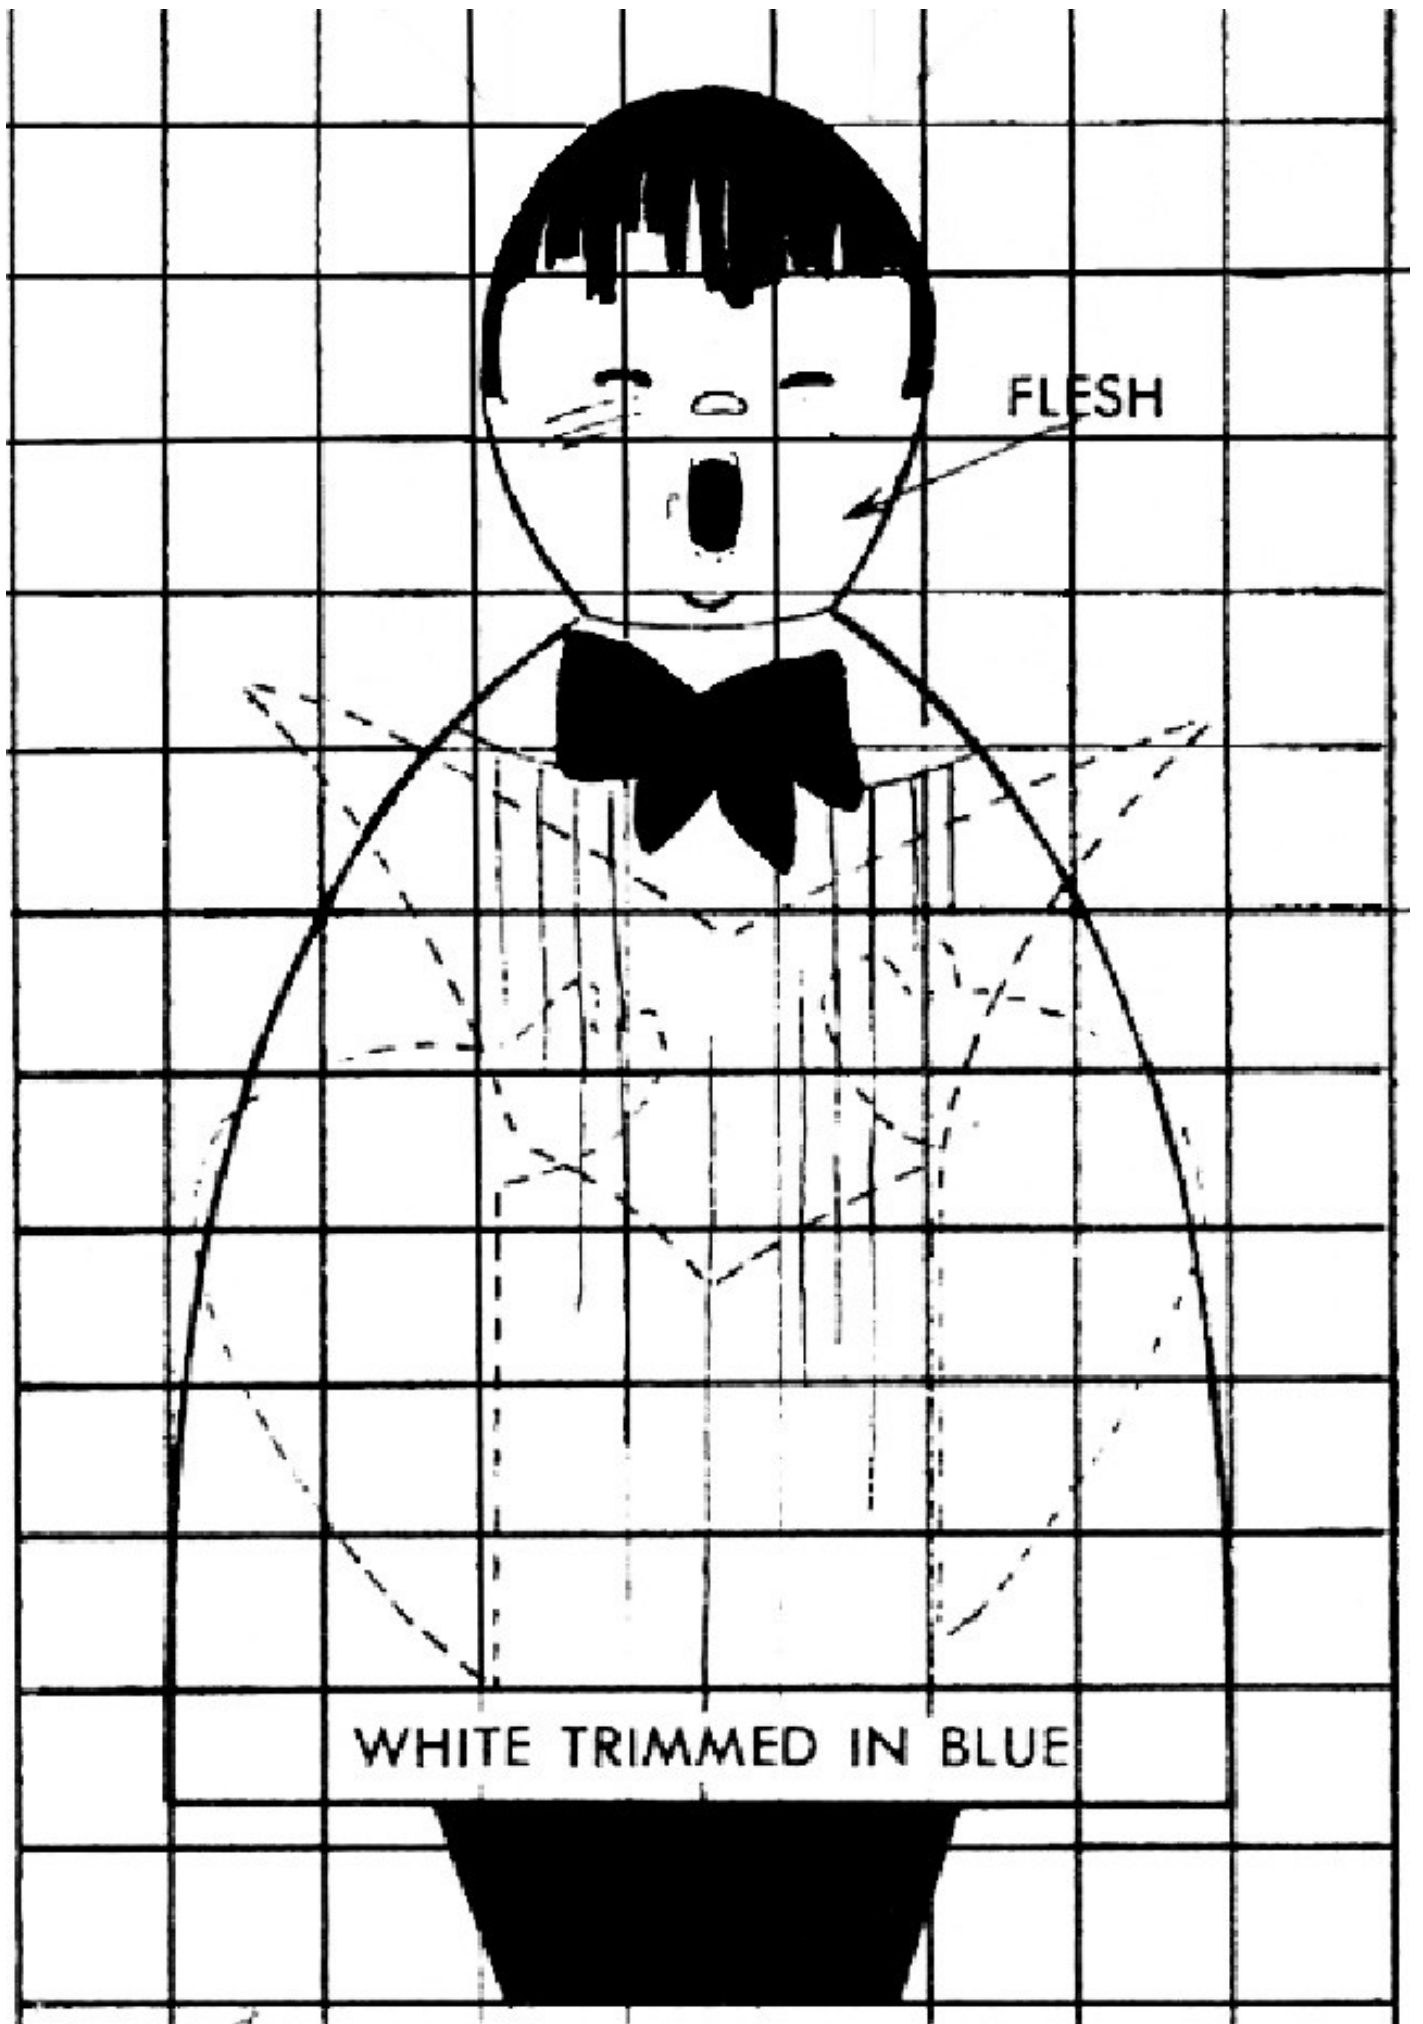

All of the designs are simple to cut out, the larger ones from 1/2 in. and the smaller ones from 3/8 in. exterior-grade plywood. If you want to decorate only one side of the cutout, then plywood with only one side graded A is the type suggested. This has one face of top-quality veneer, which would be used for the front of the cutout, and the other face of a lower-quality veneer. Should you prefer to decorate both sides of the cutout, obtain Exterior A-A plywood.

Enlarging the figures from the squared patterns and band sawing, scroll sawing, or jig sawing them to shape is no problem. For best results in painting, fill in any gaps in the edges of the plywood with wood putty and then prime, face, back and edges of the panels with exterior- enamel undercoat. Finally, add the exterior- enamel finish coat.

Choir Boys

The Choir Boys are jigsawed from $\frac{1}{4}$ in. exterior-grade plywood. Their arms and the hymnals/books they are holding are separate pieces which add to the 3-D effect. Feel free to add a large real bow instead of painting them on. You could make several of these choir boys & girls and put them in rows behind one another, each row slightly higher to have a large choir. Add a speaker and some choral music to make your choir come to life. Use a spotlight for night-time illumination.
